FIRST STEPS: RHYMING WORDS »

Rhyming is a foundational literacy skill. Through simple, engaging text, this Rhyming Words series introduces common letter groupings and repeats them throughout silly stories. This repetition allows beginning readers to identify rhyming patterns and start to read on their own. This series features outstanding original artwork, an introduction to the author and illustrator, a note to caregivers and educators, an activity for further learning, and a word list for review to aid new readers' comprehension.

Billie and Bean in the Mountains

Julia Hansson • Orca Book Publishers
2024 • LE

Celebrating the supportive relationship between a child and her dog, this story reminds us that, with resilience and courage, we can find our way through something new and scary. Billie liked visiting the mountains when she could be pulled in a sled, but Mom says she's big enough to try ski lessons instead this time. Billie doesn't like going fast and finds the hill too steep. When she notices a poster for dogsledding, Billie decides she and her dog, Bean, can make their own fun on the slopes. But when Bean is startled by some falling snow, Billie is left all alone in the cold.

This uplifting story explores the feelings that come with making mistakes and learning to ask for forgiveness. When Courtney is caught taking an apple from her neighbor's tree without permission, she wonders how to apologize in a way that shows how she feels in her heart. And since her neighbor is also her teacher, she must figure it out by morning. Tossing and turning throughout the night, Courtney realizes it's not easy to authentically say she's sorry to someone she cares about. Fortunately, an idea takes root and gives Courtney the courage to bring an apology to fruition.

Whoosh! Crash! Thunk! Follow along as the loud sounds of a falling tree signal the transformation of a quiet area of the forest into a flourishing center of activity. This lyrical nonfiction story uses word opposites, such as small and large, dark and light, high and low, and fast and slow, to introduce young readers to the natural recycling of fallen timber into log bridges. From bears, porcupines, and raccoons to eagles, mice, and deer, a host of forest animals repurpose a fallen tree, connecting two sides of a stream together throughout the seasons.

Todd Parr is the author and illustrator of more than 60 books for children, including the New York Times best-selling The I Love You Book, The Earth Book, and The Thankful Book. He has inspired, empowered, and entertained millions of children around the world with his bold images, unique sense of humor, and inclusive storytelling. His books have received numerous awards and are available in 20 languages. He is the co-creator of the popular Daytime Emmy®-nominated animated TV series ToddWorld with Gerry Renert of SupperTime Entertainment, and several short films for Sesame Street have been based on Todd's work.

A flight attendant before becoming a full-time author and illustrator, Todd published his first book, The Okay Book, in 1999. Todd devotes time to numerous philanthropic causes. He is a reader and fundraiser for The Ronald McDonald House, and he has served on the board of directors for the Virginia Children's Book Festival. Todd's corporate collaborations include Best Buy, Stouffer's, and the San Francisco-Marin Food Bank, among others.

The Wyoming native lives in California with his adopted pit bulls and enjoys cooking. He is often found whipping up macaroni and cheese, tacos, and grilled-cheese recipes, which he regularly shares with fans. For more information on Todd, visit toddparr.com.

Jordan and Max, Race Day

Suzanne Sutherland • Orca Book Publishers
2024 • LE

When Max tells Jordan that their school's end-of-year carnival will include the Massey Obstacle Olympics, Jordan is super excited. He's been dreaming of the chance to be in a real race. Even though chatter at school makes the obstacle course sound intimidating, and the new kid, Ivan, is trying to scare him off, Jordan knows that, with Max as his coach, he's ready for anything. When it rains on the day of the carnival, Max starts panicking. Then Ivan shows up wearing fancy new cleats, and Jordan begins to wonder if he's up for the challenge. During the race, Jordan finds out that help can come from unlikely places – and new friendships can blossom when you least expect them.
